

Moderation and Appeals

Last updated: June 2026

This policy explains how moderation works on the Forum, what we expect from moderators, the actions we can take, and how to appeal a decision you believe is wrong. It forms part of our Terms of Service.

1. Our approach

We moderate to keep the Forum safe, useful, and welcoming, and to enforce the Community Rules, the Terms of Service, and the Roblox rules. We aim to apply the Rules consistently and in proportion to what happened. Using the Forum means accepting that moderation is part of it.

2. Who moderates

Moderation is carried out by our staff and by moderators, which may be a voluntary role offered to trusted members of the community. Moderators act on reports from users and on content they review directly. Moderators are not authorised to act on behalf of Roblox. Separately from us, Roblox moderates the platform as a whole and can take its own action against Roblox accounts, which is outside our control.

3. What we expect from moderators

If you serve as a moderator, you agree that:

- You will follow the Terms of Service, the Community Rules, and this policy, and you will help maintain a community that follows them;
- You will not create, approve, enable, or encourage rule-breaking content or behaviour;
- You will act on reports in the areas you moderate, which may include removing content that breaks the Rules and escalating matters to us where needed;
- You will not perform moderation actions in exchange for any payment, gift, favour, or other compensation from or on behalf of a third party;

- You will use any non-public information you obtain through moderating only for the purpose of moderating; and
- Any additional rules you set for the areas you moderate must not conflict with the Terms of Service, the Community Rules, the Roblox rules, or this policy.

We may revoke or limit moderator access at any time, and we may overturn a moderator's action or decision where we consider it is not in the interest of the Forum or its community.

4. What we act on

We may take action on any Content or account that breaks, or that we reasonably believe breaks, the Community Rules, the Terms of Service, or the Roblox rules, as well as on behaviour that harms users or the Forum even where it is not listed explicitly.

5. How content is reviewed

We review content that is reported to us, and we may review content proactively. We consider context when we make decisions. We cannot review everything that is posted on the Forum, and we do not guarantee that all rule-breaking content will be found or removed. Reporting helps us a great deal. See the Safety and Reporting policy.

6. Actions we may take

Depending on what happened and how serious it is, we may:

- Remove, edit, or hide Content;
- Issue a warning;
- Mute an account, temporarily limiting what it can post;
- Apply other restrictions to an account's features or access;
- Issue a temporary ban;
- Issue a permanent ban for serious or repeated breaches; and
- Apply restrictions to specific areas of the Forum.

We may also refer matters to Roblox or, where appropriate, to the relevant authorities.

7. How we decide

We aim to be fair and consistent and to match our response to the seriousness of the breach, taking context, intent, and history into account. Minor first-time issues usually attract a lighter response, while serious or repeated breaches attract a heavier one. Some content, such as illegal material, threats, or content that endangers others, may result in immediate removal and a ban without a prior warning.

8. Account restrictions and ban evasion

A restriction or ban applies to you, not only to a single account. Attempting to get around a moderation action, for example by using additional or alternate accounts to evade a mute or ban, is a serious breach and may lead to further action against all accounts involved.

9. How to appeal

If you believe a decision was a mistake, you can appeal:

- Submit your appeal through the Forum's in-game support system;
- Explain which action you are appealing and why you believe it was wrong, and include anything that helps us understand the situation; and
- Submit one appeal and allow time for it to be reviewed. Repeated or abusive appeals may be declined.

Where possible, an appeal is reviewed by someone other than the person who made the original decision. We will let you know the outcome where we reasonably can.

10. Outcomes of an appeal

After reviewing an appeal, we may uphold, reduce, or reverse the original action. Our decision on an appeal is final at the Forum level. Any decision made by Roblox about your Roblox account must be appealed to Roblox directly, through Roblox Support.

11. Transparency and limits

We try to resolve issues through communication where we can, rather than through restrictions. Moderation on the Forum is a private process carried out at our discretion, and it is not a legal or judicial proceeding. Nothing in this policy limits our rights under the Terms of Service.

12. Changes to this policy

We may update this policy from time to time. If we make changes, we will post the updated policy and change the "Last updated" date at the top. By continuing to use the Forum after the changes take effect, you accept the updated policy.
